

Khajuraho - In the heart of India

Written by Administrator

Wednesday, 28 March 2012 09:07

© Marcin Bialek, Devi Jagadambi Temple

If ever there is a tiny black mole, a near-perfect beauty spot on the pout of time that heightens its allure, then surely that is the ancient temple town of Khajuraho.

The great bard of India, Rabindranath Tagore, had likened the Taj Mahal to a teardrop quivering on the cheek of Time. If I were to extend that simile, I would say that if ever there is a tiny black mole, a near-perfect beauty spot on the pout of time that heightens its allure, then surely that is the ancient temple town of Khajuraho!

Khajuraho - In the heart of India

Written by Administrator

Wednesday, 28 March 2012 09:07

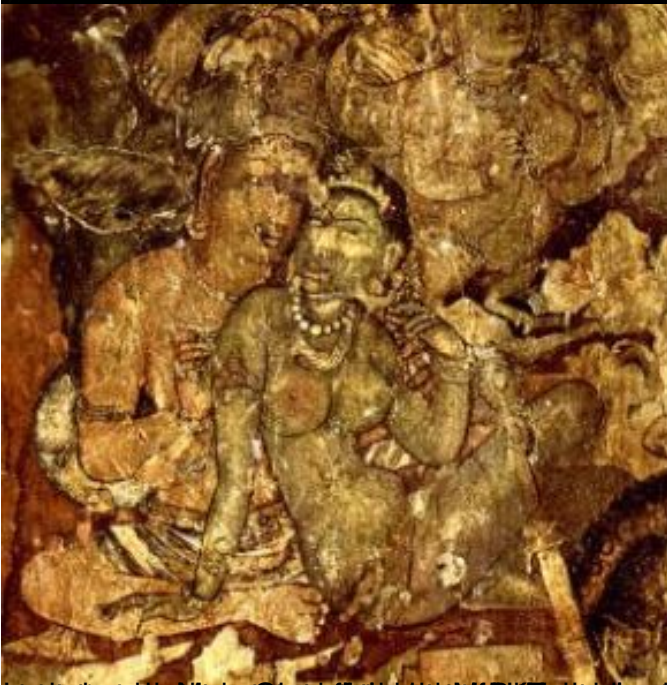

© Christopher Voitus, Lakshmana Temple

Khajuraho - In the heart of India

Written by Administrator

Wednesday, 28 March 2012 09:07

Hindustani Awaaz: Literature, Culture and Society